FIVE REASONS TO STUDY SOCIAL WORK AT UOW

1. EARN A NATIONALLY ACCREDITED QUALIFICATION
Accreditation is being sought from the Australian Association of Social Workers (AASW), so you can join and take advantage of ongoing professional development, social work journals, and enjoy better job mobility. The AASW will review our programs annually, which means staff are constantly working to ensure our courses meet the evolving needs of students and the national standards of social work.

2. PROFESSIONAL PRACTICE
Social work is about helping real people and at UOW you will practice your skills with real people in the real world. Professional experience is an integral part of our program — you’ll undertake 1,000 hours over two placements during the last two years of your degree. During this time you’ll develop your professional skills and learn about different fields of practice and work opportunities.

3. EMPLOYABILITY
Social work is an industry that is increasing in demand both within Australia and internationally, and an accredited degree in social work from UOW can open doors to a range of careers in management, policy development, education, human resources, and politics. You will have other employment opportunities in health, human services, governmental, and community agencies.

4. DIVERSITY OF PRACTICE
We know that no two communities, families or individuals are the same, that’s why our students learn various methods of social work, including counselling, group work, community work and various social change strategies. They do this while engaging with diverse communities. As part of Social Work at UOW, our students learn specifically about working in mental health, child protection and family services, and for Indigenous people and their communities to prepare them for a range of career opportunities upon graduation.

5. CIVIC ENGAGEMENT
At UOW we are committed to enhancing connections to community. That’s why we engage with people and organisations within the Illawarra to improve the services of the community, learn how to work collaboratively to achieve common goals, and appreciate the diversity and complexity of the region.
Field Education for Professional Experience

All social work courses involve placements in a variety of institutional and community settings and may involve work with vulnerable and disadvantaged individuals and communities.

Professional Practice

Professional experience of 1000 hours over two placements is compulsory and integrated into the last two years of the degree and will usually occur in the Illawarra, Shoalhaven, Southern Highlands and Southern Sydney area. During this experience, students are supervised by qualified social workers. Students must make themselves available for professional experience at the locations specified at negotiated times. It is an expectation that students who participate in the course are capable of meeting the demands of travelling to and from Professional Experience locations. Some agencies require that students hold a driver’s license.

Many agencies in which students are placed require that individuals have a criminal record clearance prior to placement. This includes State and Federal Government agencies as well as organisations in the not for profit sector. The cost of the police check is borne by the student.

Child Protection

Under the Child Protection (Working with Children) Act 2012, and the Child Protection (Working with Children) Regulation 2013 students enrolled in UOW degrees where their studies require them to engage in activities that involve children or young people, may be required to complete a Volunteer / Student Declaration and/or to undergo a Working With Children Check (WWCC).

NSW Health Requirements

The NSW Health Department requires all students undertaking clinical placements at NSW Health hospitals and facilities to:
- undergo a national criminal record check; and
- comply with NSW Health’s immunisation requirements prior to employment or placement in any capacity in the NSW health system.

This criminal record clearance will be conducted by the NSW Police and/or the Australian Federal Police. Students are required to arrange for this check to be undertaken following enrolment, and the cost of the check will be their responsibility.

Social work empowers individuals, families, groups and communities to make positive changes in their lives and their environments.

The core of social work is to improve social, psychological, and interpersonal wellbeing of people. It does this by alleviating pain and distress; by addressing inequality and injustice in social and community problems through improvements in social policy; and by working collaboratively to change social circumstances.

Social workers use many tools to do this, drawing on social work theory and multidisciplinary knowledge to overcome barriers and help people become independent and prosperous.

In their practice, social workers are influenced by values that include respectful relationships, social justice, human rights and social inclusion of at-risk communities. In Australia, the knowledge and traditions of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people as the traditional owners of the land are promoted and held in high esteem.

The UOW Bachelor of Social Work will give you theoretical and practical knowledge to pursue your passion, while working with leading experts in the field who share your passion.
The Bachelor of Social Work at UOW is a new professional program which combines expertise from the social sciences and practical knowledge and skills from over a century of practice into a targeted professional program with strong links to the region, industry and employers.

Students will develop core skills and knowledge fitting them for employment in many areas of social work practice and the human services. Core practice areas include working with individuals, families, groups and communities.

Beyond these there are specialised areas of practice such as child protection, mental health, work with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders and across cultures with migrants and refugees. The community services sector is the largest employer in the region and the two required placements will link students to these opportunities.

UOW Social Work staff look forward to meeting you, connecting you to other students and ensuring your learning is stimulating, challenging and rewarding.
